Today's Orthodontic Appliances

Orthodontics is the branch of dentistry that realigns teeth that are crowded, protruding, or too far apart. Until recently, orthodontic treatment was focused mainly on teenagers, and the preferred method was metal train-track braces. Adult concerns about cosmetics promoted dental researchers to produce revolutionary new techniques that has brightened the smiles of thousands of patients, leaving the memories of metal braces as just that Memories.

Clear Plastic Aligners

The new clear aligners is the invisible way to straighten teeth using a series of custom made, nearly undetectable appliances. You may be aware of these aligners advertised as Invisalign, MTM, Clear Correct, Simple 5, etc. All of these systems, if used properly, have been proven effective in both clinical research and in practices nationwide.

How they Work

After an initial consultation and examination, including xrays and study models we will decide on a treatment plan. We will design a treatment plan that we feel is best for you. After submitting the prescription, the orthodontic lab will fabricate a series of medical grade plastic aligners that will fit snugly over your teeth and gently move them through every stage of your treatment plan. Because there are no metal wires or brackets, the clear plastic aligners are very comfortable. The systems works while you're wearing the aligners and we will recommend the proper wear time. With clear aligners that are almost invisible you will have nothing to hide.

We welcome you to call our office to ask questions, or arrange a consultation to discover if and how this type of orthodontics treatment can help give you the smile you've always wanted.

Summer Trips to the Dentist

Summertime brings many things to mind, picnics at the beach or sunning by the pool. However, planning dental care treatment for the summer can be beneficial for both children and adults.

Scheduling dental exams in the summer is a great start to preventing tooth decay and other oral diseases that affect children. During the summer, children won't miss school to go to checkups and long-term treatment plans can begin before school starts.

Adults can also take advantage of time off in the summer to plan their own dental care.

If you are looking to change your smile, please give us a call to hear about our bleaching and Invisalign specials.
